TESTING POLICIES

- At the Counseling & Counseling Psychology Clinic, all psychological testing is conducted by counseling psychology doctoral graduate assistants under the direct supervision of Thomas R. Berry Ph.D., Licensed Psychologist.

- For traditional ADHD or LD testing, a payment of $150.00 of the ($325.00) total fee is due at the first testing session. The remaining $175.00 is due prior to the release of the final report at the feedback session.

- Payment is accepted in forms of cash, check, or bursar (for OSU students). We do not take insurance. Payment for personality and other psychological testing is dependent upon tests needed for evaluation, please call for more information.

- All psychological assessments include a) a comprehensive intake session, b) all necessary testing sessions (typically 2 sessions), and c) an hour-long feedback session covering a detailed explanation of the results.

- Report turnaround time may vary. An updated waitlist estimate can be provided upon calling the clinic.

We provide full, comprehensive psychological testing services for both OSU-affiliated students, faculty, and staff and community members for:

- Attention Deficit/Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD)
- Specific Learning Disabilities (LD)
- Personality
- Diagnostic Clarification
- Psychological Evaluations: includes (not limited to) emotional, behavioral, social, adaptive and intellectual functioning assessments

We are unable to provide testing related to legal proceedings.

WHAT IS ADHD?

Have you wondered whether you might have attention deficit/hyperactivity disorder (ADHD)?

ADHD is one of the most common neurodevelopmental disorders of childhood. It is usually first diagnosed in childhood and often lasts into adulthood. Adults with ADHD may experience difficulties at work and in their personal and family lives as related to ADHD symptoms.

Diagnosing ADHD

Deciding if someone has ADHD is a process with several steps. There is no single test to diagnose ADHD, and many other concerns, like anxiety, depression, sleep difficulties, and certain types of learning disabilities, can have similar symptoms.

LEARNING DISABILITIES

Specific learning disorders are neurodevelopmental disorders that often develop during childhood, though may not be recognized until adulthood. LDs typically occur in 1 of 3 areas: reading, math, and writing.
