Also, please describe or provide a link to program admissions policies that allow students to enter with credit for prior graduate work, and the expected implications for time to completion. Please indicate NA if not applicable:

OSU School Psychology students are admitted from the bachelor's, master's, or specialist levels, although most enter the program from the bachelor's level. Those who enter from the bachelor's level are usually resident on campus for 4 years before relocating for a pre-doctoral internship. Those who are admitted from the master's or specialist levels typically are resident on campus for 3 years before the pre-doctoral internship. Only full-time students are accepted into the program in small cohorts of 6-8 per year and begin in August at the start of the fall semester. Students entering the program with advanced degrees may request a waiver of some coursework. Waivers of prior coursework are only considered if it was earned when the student was post-baccalaureate (i.e., after earning a bachelor's degree) at an accredited institution and the applicable course(s) was/were certified as graduate credit by that institution. These courses need to be completed within 10 years of receiving their Ph.D. from Oklahoma State University. The core school psychology faculty make determinations about the equivalence and sufficiency of those courses and experiences for waiver so that students do not have to duplicate prior coursework or experiences. Graduate college and program policies require at least 60 hours post master's must be completed through Oklahoma State University.

Tuition for full-time students (out-of-state)	25,019

Because the program accepts only fulltime students, the OSU School Psychology program attempts to support all program students (resident and non-resident) with at least a .25 fte (fulltime equivalent) 9-month graduate assistantship (contingent upon funding). Over the past 10 years, students have typically retained an assistantship for the duration of their residency on campus. The duties associated with the assistantships are varied, but at .25 fte typically require 10 hours per week. All tuition expenses (resident and non-resident) are waived for those students who are awarded assistantships. This includes summer tuition expenses as well as fall and spring semester expenses. In addition, the assistantship includes salary and subsidized student health insurance ($30 per month cost to the student). Most students take 12 credit hours each fall and spring semester and 9 hours in the summer session. The above cost of fees is based on 12 credit hours for fall and spring semesters and 9 hours for the summer session.

School psychology students are required to apply for APA-accredited pre-doctoral internships through the Association of Psychology Postdoctoral Internship Centers (APPIC) as their capstone program experience. In the past 10 years (2012-2022) 100% of the program students have obtained pre-doctoral internships and 89% of our students have obtained APA-accredited internships through the competitive APPIC match process. These internships include schools, integrated care settings, hospitals, mental health centers, consortiums, and other settings.

Licensure

Outcome	2015-2025
The total number of program graduates (doctoral degrees conferred on transcript) between 2 and 10 years ago	46
The number of these graduates (between 2 and 10 years ago) who became licensed psychologists in the past 10 years	37
Licensure percentage	80

Licensure through the State Board of Examiners of Psychologists as a Health Service Psychologist is a sought after credential and accomplishment for most program students. All program students are eligible for licensure at the completion of the program. At times all requirements for licensure can be completed by the 2nd year post graduation. In most instances this requires the graduate to achieve a passing score on the Examination for Professional Practice in Psychology (EPPP), a passing score on the state jurisprudence exam, and one year of fulltime post-doctoral supervision from a licensed psychologist. Sixty-one percent of OSU School Psychology program students in the past ten years have achieved licensure, with a large number of graduates still at various stages in the process. All program students also attain the National Certification in School Psychology (NCSP) at the completion of the program. This national certification in school psychology is a recognized credential for practice in public school settings and is often used by state departments of education for certification of school psychologists. Additionally many program students are eligible for certification as Board Certified Behavior Analysts (BCBA-D) at the completion of the program. This also requires a passing score on the exam and some additional supervision by a Board Certified Behavior Analyst - Doctoral.
